Maiden shipment of LNG arrives on April 23- The Daily Observer

It will be pumped into nat'l gas grid from May 9 The first shipment of Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG) is scheduled to arrive at Moheshkhali Island in the Bay of Bengal on April 23. The liquid will then be gasified and pumped into the national gas grid at a rate of 500 million cubic feet per day (mmcf) from May 9. "Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina also the Minister for Energy and Power will inaugurate the pumping job on April 25" The cargo to Moheshkhali Island will be transported by Excelerate Energy 138,000m3 Excellence, the floating storage and regasification unit (FSRU) that will take up position as the country's first LNG import terminal on arrival on site. Bangladesh is developing a number of LNG import projects and the second to reach fruition will be Summit LNG. Due to commence operations in October 2018, Summit, like Excelerate, will make use of an FSRU based near Moheshkhali Island and able to process up to 3.75 mta of LNG. The second shipment of LNG supply is expected in late 2018 from another LNG terminal being built by the country's biggest power producer by Summit group, which would supply another 500 mmcf from Moheshkhali.
